How to Upload and Submit a Video to YouTube ☺

ON YOUR PHONE:

Make sure the YouTube app is installed on your phone.	Create and/or login to your YouTube account. Use your google account if you have one (this may happen automatically).	Click on the little video camera icon. Give YouTube permission to access your camera roll (if necessary).	Select the video you want to upload (your videos should show up under the record/go live options).	Trim the video if necessary, then click “next.”	Create a Title for your video using the Dancer’s Name and style of dance in the video (ex. Teagan Gardner Cha Cha) In the description box put which level of dance it is (ex. Syllabus American Cha Cha) Set the privacy level to “Unlisted”	Click “upload”. Usually uploading takes a few minutes but you should be able to see the progress as the video uploads. Once it finishes uploading it will then be “processing” for a few more minutes. Your video may even “disappear” for several minutes, but don’t panic. It will eventually show up when it is done processing.
To find your video after processing, close and re-open the YouTube app to find the “home” page. Then click on the library menu. From the library menu choose “your videos”.	The videos you just uploaded should be at the top (if they aren’t try re-sorting the videos by “date added (newest)”.	Click on your video to open it. Just under the video should be a “share” option. Click on “share” and then choose “email.”	In the “to:” line type studio@extremeballroom.com”. Under the video link type in the dancer’s name, which video is being submitted, and the dancer’s height (it is hard to tell how tall they are from a video!!)	Repeat the process for the other audition video.
Go out for ice cream and reward yourself because you did it!! ☺
